

Apple-icious (A Parody)

By Mohammed Lodhi Hussain

Apple fodder

Here's ONE MORE THING
Unwanted Subscription fees.

YEAH!

Who doesn't like a bill on their card.

Thank you Apple. As if our economy wasn't burning through cash.

You have found a way to "Think different." Yet again.

This must be a prank or something. If you have to pay subscriptions, what do you own exactly?

By the way, Am I the only Sucker who believed that this Apple ecosystem was a real thing?

I guess so.

It has been many years later and I still get chills when my Mac says it's time for an update.

It's a night on the town with my iPod.

Oh, you say they don't make that anymore?

Is there still a Mac Pro?

No.

Ok.

But the iPhone is there, right?

No, you need a contract.

And a telephone from the 1900s still works. But you get the festivities of spending a grand or more for your iPhone so you can buy a new one next year.

But the Data is mine. I mean, I created it.

No, it belongs to your tech overlords at apple.

All these updates remind me of all that action we got highschool placing truth or dare.

Except here you are Mr. Magoo'd on monthly contracts.

They are the Viagra and Prune juice of the tech industry.

Side note: This may be the worst or best comedic approach I have so bear with me folks.

Did you know those iPhones are highly addictive?

Who Knew!

I see online people all around the world having an iPhone. 2.5 billion in circulation.

Yet, we here in America Have to take out installment plans just to hold one.

And don't forget a missed payment. You will be out of an iPhone and your social media identity will disappear because you forget to like sing-sing or twinkles cat videos playing tiger.

Let us not forget that Apple is the industry standard.

Soon to be sonorous with such titans as Atari, Commodore, and that one guy who is too cool for school.

But you say apple needs our money for Research and Development?

That's why, Apple has to snoop on our devices. You see if Apple doesn't snoop how else will we know the greatest mysteries of the universe?

Like who moved my Cheese?

Or

Where's Waldo?

Or

Who watches Apple TV shows anyway.

But they do good by redistributing our money by paying taxes.

Ohhh. Two-shay Young Grasshopper.

Not only do they collect taxes. They refuse to pay them.

Sweetheart deals.

While everyone is watching the latest twerking videos or making what is old new again, CDs and DVDs and Blu rays.

Apple's leader has made an Overpriced Fandom laptop called the MacBook Neo.

And you can go by the reviews on YouTube infomercials. It is the second coming of Apple.

Yes, they have made a device that is more expensive per lie of the product. With less bells and whistles. And gave you the honor of praising this wonder of an iPhone chip into a laptop case.

According to those YouTube reviews. 2 weeks is sufficient time to know that this is the greatest invention since the Chia pet.

It's about 10 years too late. And a few hundred dollars overcharged. Thanks Apple.

Let's not forget about donglegate. The once spectacular and grandest gate of them all.

Dongle this?

"Why Sir or Mam, Your dongle is hanging?"

Indeed.com

What happens when you need dongles for all situations? You gotta go to apple.

1 dongle. 2 dongle. 3 dongle and more.

Of course, I am writing this on a M series MacBook Pro.

Maybe we should be thanking Apple and sing kumbaya for giving use dongle's to throw in our cabinet drawers like all our other weird oddities.

Under the moonlight that dongle looks too good to fail.

Oops, no more dongles.

Am I the Village Idiot or what?

I truly believed in the Apple ecosystem. I really was rooting or you apple. But I guess handing out dividends from your money maker to shareholders is your M.O. ?

I digress,

Just sign over the deed to your soul today and they will give a nice satchel or as we in America like to call it a ladies purse for your iPhone.

And remember do not forget to pay the gatekeeper.

Signing off is late night foolhardily.
