

Let's get to it... Here goes my first take with Analysis,
Commentary and Observations and a rough sketch of:
What has the New York City Duly-elected Mayor
tangibly done, so far, or you and the City?

Legend YES or NO
Campaign Pledge	Yes	No	Notes
Free Childcare	Yes. At a big price tag
Free Buses for New York City commuters		The Big red NO	Faster buses. Does that make it safer?
Tax the Rich	Yes. That is a bad thing for our Capitalist beacon to the world.		Since the wealthy have left. He will tax the remainder NYC residents Bad public policy.
Housing

	YES, BUT what are we really getting and who qualifies?
Anti-NYPD. Does not care about NYPD Finest.	Yes		Did not pass a contract with NYPD. Who serve and protect our city.
Is against ICE in NYC.	Yes		What is he afraid of? Illegal undocumented flooding NYC
Has a good quality of lie record so far?		A big Pothole-sized, NO	Crime, delays, unsuitability in the employment, across all sectors. Has sought to suborn the American Dream
Making the city into a squalor and cesspool.	YES, Daily & Compounding gross negligence or incompetence on keeping the City of the World from being Pristine.		Nobody wants to live here unless they have no choice. Still my Hometown.

Pure Patronage?	Raises pay for Himself and others to cash in on tax funding.		This was a play to get paid scheme by the DSA. Not a majority of support for this election.
Recycles speeches to much?	Of Course. First there was world salads. Now, let's kick it up a notch with Brain farts and boring speaking tantrums.
Free food	YES. In a couple of years. We will still be hungry now and then. Overbudget and underperforming most likely. Sounds good until you realize that bribery, theft, empty shelves and lines longer lines than at a Presidential elections reward is oatmeal and water.

	They will put us all out of food and business.
--	--	--	--

Who Am I? And why should you Listen.

Hi. I am mohammed Lodhi Hussain and I am just a randomguy who went on a college leadership retreat that brought me back to my scholarly love, namely, the political arena.

I was born to be in politics. In some form. Here I am today.

Unexpectedly and gleeful.

What is Scoreboard Politics?

Welcome to scoreboard politics. This is my way of calculating in the most basic terms my assessment of political rhetoric versus fact.

My name is Mohammed Lodhi Hussain, again. I am as qualified as anyone else to provide commentary and analysis of New York City Politics and policies. Because I grew up during the Savings and Loans crises of the late 1980s. I have seen election after elections go counted since I was a four year old. McNeill and Lehrer News Hour was my favorite show.

I campaigned across the board. I got my first taste of political campaigning in 6th grade. And I was since enamored of the hardest professional careers in History.

In 7th grade I ran and was defeated badly in my first election. We printed flyers and my family chipped in to get the word out. No expectations. Just campaigning.

I studied Political Science, practically and academically, and was stunned and surprised when I received Bachelors from Brooklyn College Class of 2005 with honors in Political Science, I also studied a wide range of Biology almost a B.S. I planned to study Medicine and be a good practicing physician. Easier said then done. I still hold onto that ember of fire that drives me to be a doctor or philosopher.

Socrates said it the best is when he shared “All that I know is nothing.”

How can you argue with superior logic like that. To me that was one of the question's posed to me in my course. And at that moment I had an ephany. If all Socrates knows is nothing. Then knowing nothing is something indeed. And that Nothing created a logic pattern since revered by our founding father's and the founding families who braved the Seas where dragons dwell, as the cartographers knew.

I did my first and second study abroad in the summer of 2004 and the winter of 2005 in Nanjing, China. It was a different time. Even then, Currency management was done in. China, and empty cities real estate were sold out.

I served in the Brooklyn College (CLAS) College of Liberal Arts and Sciences Student Government with most successful outcomes.

I ran and won the "United Student's League's", Chairmanship, twice.

When I campaign, I campaign 24/7. I do not take one day for granted. I believe that constituents need to meet and greet and know that you care.

My college goal was simple. Make my brother's life easier than mine. I believe I achieved it at the time.

Now my new goal is making sure that everyone gets a chance at their particular American Dream.

For example, I started as a Student Government Assembly, Became CUNY, City University of New York's, University Student Senator, where I challenged the Constitutionality of Senate and no House of representative government.

I lead and lost many causes.

I served as the Duly-Elected CLAS Student Government President and won by a narrowest of margins at 21 or 22 votes. Depending on who you ask.

That is where I learned the most valuable political lesson of my lifetime.

"When is a Win not a Win. When it is a Loss." By mohammed Lodhi hussain

After that experience. I walked away from College Politics and sought to make a name for myself.

I spent the next five to six years trying to join any organization of value.

It was hands on experience of doing everything wrong. But It felt so right.

Scoreboard Politics

Tracking as of:

Tuesday, July 21, 2026

Intention: The goal is to track and share Politics wins and losses and see if the rhetoric matches the facts.

Sincerely,

Mohammed Lodhi Hussain
Editor, Scoreboard Politics
<https://sundays7pm.com>

P.S. was the helpful. Reply and comment and share if you think this is something important. If you have time make your own. I would love to read it too.